

Spring is coming... Time for a good glass of wine on the balcony or terrace

Brauneberg, march 2026

Dear Wine Lovers,

Spring is on its way. We've already had the chance to feel and enjoy some pleasant spring-like temperatures of nearly 20°C on a few weekends. Although the coming days will still be a bit chilly, which will slow down the vines' awakening and the flow of juice into the new shoots.

A few 2025 wines are still fermenting in the cellar, but most have already completed fermentation and are aging on the lees in barrels. The first 2025 wines are expected to be bottled by the end of April. These include, among others, the new 2025 dry Pinot Blanc (Weißburgunder), which replaces the 2024 vintage that has already been sold out.

For the upcoming Easter holidays and warm spring days outdoors, I recommend our lively and refined 2024 wines—Secco or sparkling wines—which mature on the lees in the bottle for over 60 months before being degorged (the lees are removed) and released for sale.

As a pairing for white meat, fish, and light spring and asparagus dishes, I highly recommend the elegantly aged wines from the 2023 vintage and older, with their harmonious acidity. A Juffer Goldkapsel or a Juffer-Sonnenuhr Großes Gewächs is also an excellent choice to accompany a slice of roast beef or beef fillet.

The 2020 and 2021 vintages now shine with refined elegance, complexity, and depth, and will continue to bring great pleasure for years to come! The challenges of recent months have certainly not been easy for any of us.

To express my gratitude for your loyalty and support, I would like to offer you the following:
